GREEK GODS SERIES

Hephaestus

While Hestia was goddess of calm and helpful flames, Hephaestus was god of more powerful fires. This god of the forge was a master craftsman. He designed and smithed the other Olympians' weapons and armor. He used volcanoes as forges. Smithing tools like hammers, anvils, and tongs are other common symbols. So are donkeys. Although myths about why and how differ, he had mobility issues. Hardworking donkeys helped carry him around.

Hephaestus was a son of Hera. His mother gave him Aphrodite as a wife, but it
