8. Explain how Stanley unknowingly got Clyde Livingston's sneakers, and why he got in trouble for it.

Stanley unknowingly got Clyde Livingston's sneakers when he was walking home from school and they hit him on the head as he was crossing under an overpass. Someone threw them from a car and Stanley thought he would bring them home to his dad to help with his most recent invention. Stanley felt that something was special about the sneakers and began running home. On his way home he was stopped by the police and arrested for having the sneakers because the sneakers were reported stolen from a display case in a homeless shelter. No one believed Stanley's story and thus he was punished for the incident.
