I am an animal. I was one of the first animals to be tamed by man.

I live in many parts of the world. I am even able to live in the mountains or in dry places where other animals aren’t able to live.

I have been very useful to man for a very long time. People have drunk my milk. They have eaten my meat and made things from my hair and skin. Today many people keep me as a pet.

I am a smart animal. If I live on a farm, I can be very good at figuring out how to escape from my pen!

I have hair that is white, black, gray, brown, or red. I have a short tail that points up. I usually have two horns.
I eat many kinds of plants. I am curious and like to taste new things. I have even eaten the labels off of tin cans. (I do not eat cans, though some people think I do).

Do people ever call you a kid? People called me a kid, too, when I was very young. My mother is called a “doe” or “nanny.” My dad is called a “buck” or “billy.”

I am a goat.

Written by Linda Anderson

For the complete collection of “What am I?” challenge puzzles, please visit SuperTeacherWorksheets.com.
What Am I?

By Linda Andersen

I am an animal. I was one of the first animals to be tamed by man.

I live in many parts of the world. I am even able to live in the mountains or in dry places where other animals aren’t able to live.

I have been very useful to man for a very long time. People have drunk my milk. They have eaten my meat and made things from my hair and skin. Today many people keep me as a pet.

I am a smart animal. If I live on a farm, I can be very good at figuring out how to escape from my pen!

I have hair that is white, black, gray, brown, or red. I have a short tail that points up. I usually have two horns.

I eat many kinds of plants. I am curious and like to taste new things. I have even eaten the labels off of tin cans. (I do not eat cans, though some people think I do).

Do people ever call you a kid? People called me a kid, too, when I was very young. My mother is called a “doe” or “nanny.” My dad is called a “buck” or “billy.”

What am I?
I am an animal. I was one of the first animals to be tamed by man.

I live in many parts of the world. I am even able to live in the mountains or in dry places where other animals aren’t able to live.

I have been very useful to man for a very long time. People have drunk my milk. They have eaten my meat and made things from my hair and skin. Today many people keep me as a pet.

I am a smart animal. If I live on a farm, I can be very good at figuring out how to escape from my pen!

I have hair that is white, black, gray, brown, or red. I have a short tail that points up. I usually have two horns.

I eat many kinds of plants. I am curious and like to taste new things. I have even eaten the labels off of tin cans. (I do not eat cans, though some people think I do).

Do people ever call you a kid? People called me a kid, too, when I was very young. My mother is called a “doe” or “nanny.” My dad is called a “buck” or “billy.”

What am I?

---

Answer: I am a goat.