Carson watched as the backhoe raised its claw-like arm over the empty plot of land. Today they were digging the foundation for their home.

"I wonder if they'll find anything cool," Carson's dad said. Carson barely heard him. He was fascinated with the backhoe digging up the dirt.

The backhoe stopped and Joe, the man operating it, stepped out. "We're all done with the hole."

Carson and his dad walked over to the edge of the big hole. Carson peered inside. "Wow! Can we go down there?"

"Sure," said his dad. "We just need to be careful."
