What is a habitat?
A habitat is a natural home for a plant, animal, or organism. A habitat is determined by what kinds of plants grow there, the climate, and the geography of the region.

What are different types of habitats?
There are many different types of habitats. Some examples include forests, deserts, tundras, wetlands, oceanic, grasslands, and tropical forests.

Read the passage below. Think about the animals described in the poem. What type of habitat do you think they live in?

On My Nature Hike
By Neal Levin

Lizard skitters on the path,
Muskrat takes a rustic bath,
Beaver weaves a home of sticks,
Dragonfly does fancy tricks,
Mallard glides among the reeds,
Chipmunk rustles in the weeds,
Turtle moseys through the mud,
Whitetail nibbles on a bud,
Eagle soars across the sky,
Warbler sings a lullaby...

I'm as quite as can be,
Only watching peacefully.

Notice how the poet lists an animal and then describes something it is doing.

Example: Mallard glides among the reeds
Mallard is the animal, glides among the reeds is something it can be seen doing.

Example: Eagle soars across the sky
Eagle is the animal, soars across the sky is something it can be seen doing.
