George W. Bush was the 43rd President of the United States.

“We in America do not have government by the majority. We have government by the majority who participate.”