

Name: _____

Glacier National Park

Glacier National Park is located in northwest Montana, in the United States. It borders the Waterton Lakes National Park in Canada. Both parks together are known as the Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park. This park was the world's first International Peace Park in 1932.

Glacier National Park spreads out over more than one million acres. It includes parts of two mountain ranges. It also features more than 130 lakes. More than 1,000 different plant species and hundreds of animal

Preview

Please log in to download the printable version of this worksheet.

1. What two parks make up the Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park?

2. Which statement best describes the diversity of the plants and animals you may find in Glacier National Park?

- a. There is a multitude of plant and animal species.
- b. There is a limited number of plant and animal species.
- c. There is a somewhat mixed variety of plant and animal species.
- d. none of the above

3. What does the word international mean?

ANSWER KEY

Glacier National Park

Glacier National Park is located in northwest Montana, in the United States. It borders the Waterton Lakes National Park in Canada. Both parks together are known

Preview

Please log in to download the printable version of this worksheet.

- c. There is a somewhat mixed variety of plant and animal species.
- d. none of the above

3. What does the word international mean?

spanning across two or more countries