Ian loved going to baseball games. He always tried catching the stray balls from the stands. But each time, he missed.

He missed when he was fast. He missed when he watched the ball carefully. He missed when he stood tall on the tips of his toes. He even missed when he wore his special glove.

But today, he would try again. “Maybe today will be our lucky day,” Ian told his dog, Sir Wags-a-Lot.

Ian and Sir Wags-a-Lot walked to the game with Dad.

Whack! The player hit another foul ball. This time, it didn’t even fly Ian’s way.

“I give up,” Ian said. He looked down.

Whack!

Everyone near Ian stood up. Ian looked up. A ball was flying right to him!

But he was too slow. He wasn’t ready. He was going to miss the ball!

Sir Wags-a-Lot was ready though. Sir Wags-a-Lot leaped up and caught the ball with his teeth.

“You did it!” Ian hugged his dog. “I am so glad you came!”

It was a lucky day after all.
