Michael raked the last of the leaves into a small pile. There weren't even enough to jump in. "Mom and Dad are never going to pay me for raking this little bit of leaves."

"What are you talking about?" Greg asked, walking up behind him.

"I'm trying to do extra chores so I can make enough money to buy the new Space Invaders video game, but there's nothing to do around here." Michael sighed and looked around.

"You could offer to wash Mom and Dad's cars," Greg said.

Michael's face lit up. "That's a great idea."

"I bet some of the neighbors would pay you to wash theirs, too. It's getting colder and no or

"Sure. Golf season is over. I won't need the extra cash for a while." Greg disappeared inside the house.

Michael asked his parents if he could wash their cars for a small fee. When they agreed, he asked some neighbors, too. Three more agreed. Michael got a bucket, some sponges, towels, and soap. Greg came back outside with the gloves.

"Here you go. They might be a little big for you, but they'll keep your hands warm and dry.”

“Thanks.” Michael still couldn’t believe his brother was helping him earn the money like this. He was going to have to think of a way to repay him.

video game next to it. Michael looked at Greg and thought of how he’d helped him earn the money. Greg loved golf and wouldn’t get to golf again until spring. Unless...

“What are you doing?” Greg asked as Michael put his game back and brought the golf game to the register.

“I thought this golf video game would be more fun. We can play it together.”
