Kendall sighed as she dragged the rake across the fallen leaves.

"I'm never going to finish this."

"Hey," Eli called over the fence. "What are you doing?"

"Raking."

"But now we have to rake all those leaves again." Kendall shook her head. They'd never finish if he kept doing that.

"Just try it." Eli raked the leaves into another pile, but bigger this time. He set the rakes aside and took Kendall's hand. "Ready? Go!"

Kendall allowed him to pull her along, and they jumped onto the pile. "Hey, that was kind of fun." She looked around. "Only, we're creating more work for ourselves."

Eli smiled. "Okay, then let's try leaf races."

"What's a leaf race?"

Eli handed Kendall a rake and led her back to the fence. "First one to the other side of the yard wins. You have to drag the rake along the ground to rake leaves while you run. If you pick up your rake at any point, you have to start over. Got it?"

Kendall nodded and put her rake flush on the ground. "Ready."

"On your mark. Get set. Go!"

They took off across the yard, their rakes trailing behind them. Eli reached the other side first and hooted in delight. "Yeah! I won!"

"Oh, I won! I won! I won!"

They raced back and forth until the yard was clear.

"We're done already?" Kendall said, trying to catch her breath.

"Yup. See, I told you leaves were fun."

"Want to dump some out of the bags and jump in them again?"

Kendall asked.

"We'll have to rake them afterward."

Kendall shrugged. "I don't mind."
