Kendall sighed as she dragged the rake across the fallen leaves. "I'm never going to finish this."

"Hey," Eli called over the fence. "What are you doing?"

"Raking."

"Cool. You want help?" Eli climbed the fence and hopped over.

"Really?" Kendall couldn't imagine anyone volunteering for something so boring.

aside and took Kendall's hand. "Ready? Go!"

Kendall allowed him to pull her along, and they jumped onto the pile. "Hey, that was kind of fun." She looked around. "Only, we're creating more work for ourselves."

Eli smiled. "Okay, then let's try leaf races."

"What's a leaf race?"

Eli handed Kendall a rake and led her back to the fence. "First one to the other side of the yard wins. You have to drag the rake along the ground to rake leaves while you run. If you pick up your rake at any point, you have to start over. Got it?"

Kendall nodded and put her rake flush on the ground. "Ready."

“On your mark. Get set. Go!”

They took off across the yard, their rakes trailing behind them. Eli reached the other side first and hooted in delight. “Yeah! I won!”

“Okay, I want a rematch. It was my first time.”

Eli held open a big garbage bag, and they scooped their piles into it. Then they raced back down to the fence for a rematch.

“This time I get to start the race,” Kendall said.

“Go ahead, but I’m still going to win.”

Kendall yelled a quick, “Ready, set, go!” and took off.

“Hey, no fair!” Eli called, running after her.
