The Race
by Liana Mahoney

I’m running a race!
It’s a game I play –
A game for sun-lit
Summer days.

My heart is pumping.
Will I win this race?
My legs are flying
In a high-speed chase.

I’m tiring out;
My running slows.

He slows down, too.
I think he knows…

I just can’t catch him.
I admit defeat.
My shadow’s so fast,
He can’t be beat!
The Race
by Liana Mahoney

1. Who is the boy in the poem racing against?

______________________________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________________________

2. Which of these statements is probably true about the race in the poem?
   a. The boy is a slow runner.
   b. It is impossible for the boy to win the race.
   c. The boy gets tired quickly.
   d. The boy will probably win next time.

3. Why does the poem state that this is a game for "sun-lit summer days"?
______________________________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________________________

4. Do you think the boy really expected to win the race? Why or why not?
______________________________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________________________

5. List four pairs of rhyming words the poet uses in this poem.

________________ and ________________,  __________________ and ________________

________________ and ________________,  __________________ and ________________

Super Teacher Worksheets - www.superteacherworksheets.com
The Race
by Liana Mahoney

1. Who is the boy in the poem racing against?

   The boy is racing against his shadow.

2. Which of these statements is probably true about the race in the poem?
   a. The boy is a slow runner.
   b. It is impossible for the boy to win the race.
   c. The boy gets tired quickly.
   d. The boy will probably win next time.

3. Why does the poem state that this is a game for "sun-lit summer days"?

   The poem states that this is a game for sun-lit summer days because there are no shadows when the sun is not out.

4. Do you think the boy really expected to win the race?  Why or why not?

   (Answers will vary.)  Possible answer: The boy probably knew he could not win a race against his shadow because he has played this game before.  He is probably running just for fun.

5. List four pairs of rhyming words the poet uses in this poem.

   race and chase, ahead and instead,
   slows and knows, defeat and beat

   Note: You may also want to accept play and day(s)