Hi, Heels. Bye, Heels.

By Crystal Moore

I strike a pose and smile,
Then prance by looking tall.
I stride. I glide. I slide!
I went and took a fall,

1. Why does the main character in this poem fall down?
   a. She isn’t being careful.
   b. She is going down stairs.
   c. She is hiding from her mother.
   d. Her feet are too small for the shoes.

2. Name the two verbs in the first line of the poem.

3. What does the word stride mean in the third line of this poem?
   a. to walk clumsily
   b. to walk with short steps
   c. to walk with long steps
   d. to look carefully in a mirror
Hi, Heels. Bye, Heels.

By Crystal Moore

I strike a pose and smile,
Then prance by looking tall.
I stride. I glide. I slide!
I went and took a fall,
’Cause, Mom, I can’t quite wear,
Your heels yet after all.

Hi, Heels. Bye, Heels.

1. Why does the main character in this poem fall down?
   a. She isn’t being careful.
   b. She is going down stairs.
   c. She is hiding from her mother.
   d. Her feet are too small for the shoes.

2. Name the two verbs in the first line of the poem.
   _______________________________________________________________________

3. What does the word stride mean in the third line of this poem?
   a. to walk clumsily
   b. to walk with short steps
   c. to walk with long steps
   d. to look carefully in a mirror

   c. to walk with long steps