In 1819, John didn’t have enough money to pay his bills, and his family went bankrupt. He was very upset that he couldn’t earn enough money for his family to live on, so he spent time improving his painting skills and began to sell his pictures. He discovered that he could earn some money doing something he really enjoyed.

John declared that he intended to paint every bird species in North America. John wanted to have his collection of bird paintings published. He found no one in America who was willing to publish his works, so in 1826, John headed for London, England. He and his paintings were well-received because it gave people in London an opportunity to see what wildlife in faraway America looked like.
It wasn't long before he was able to publish his masterpiece, Birds of America. Some people called his work the “Double Elephant Folio” because it was enormous! The pages were over three feet tall and over two feet wide. Audubon had so many bird pictures that they wouldn't all fit one book, so Birds of America was originally published in four volumes.

The public loved John's books and he had finally achieved financial success. He also enjoyed fame as one of the greatest naturalists and artists of his time. John James Audubon died on January 27, 1851. Even today, over 150 years after his death, his paintings are still praised and valued for their beauty and scientific accuracy.
