About Your Spelling Words

When you say the spelling words from this week's list, you'll notice that not every letter makes a sound. The letters you cannot hear are called silent letters.

For example, when you say the word wrist, you can hear most of the letters. The letter r, the i, and the st all make a sound. But what about the w at the beginning? It doesn't make any sound at all.

- Read your new spelling word aloud. Then tell what the silent consonant is in each word.
